Oh I think the girls will be be soiling the panties when they talk to the authorities alright. Remember what Stephanie Grace said last week in her column? Team Fed included the Nova Scotia references for a reason. How long do you reckon ppl like D'Aquilla and Abel have been talking on a party line?

I don't pretend to know all the answers but we're finding enough to understand why Team fed included that language in Karen Parker's Bill of Information.

Oh yea, Roy must really be having some massive Monarch butterfly migration problems these days after the posting here on Slabbed of Roy's letter, alleging with Broussard's permission, he was requesting an insurance rider for Broussard's property to be placed on the insurance policy of the Lodge. The letter just does not seem to support the many previous affirmed and sworn statements of the total independency of the Lodge from Broussard's Nova Scotia property holdings

It is also kinda' strange that some of the witnesses listed in the Affidavit, who watched in horror FOX 8 news about Broussard and were so offended, seem to be possibly friends or acquaintances of Broussard and for some odd reason want to testify on behalf of the Lodge..

Come on FOX 8 news you know about the recent U.S. Federal Bill of Information concerning Ms. Parker's plea deal strongly suggesting Broussard's dealings in Nova Scotia. Compare such Bill to the September, 2011 Affidavit sent to The Supreme Court of Nova Scotia containing statement No. 23: "To my knowledge and belief Mr. Broussard has not been charged or convicted with regard to any allegation of wrongdoing related to his Nova Scotia property holdings."

Sure hope the Feds are reading this international lawsuit and attached Affidavit and are encouraged to speed up their Nova Scotia investigation possibly with interviews with Lodge owners to get the real TRUTH and the filing of additional charges against Broussard if supported by sufficient evidence.

Dudley Do-Right of the RMCP may have gotten lost in big Wiggins, Miss. trying to serve BS papers on Slabbed, but we know the Feds don't ride backwards on horses and have GPS (Goat People Sensors)..

Mainly because D'quilla was benefitting from them Ashton. He is also has enough stroke to tell Charles and Vaughn what to do at Broussard's request. The original allegation was Broussard was making Parish venders rent his property at Trout Point. I think D'Aquilla's letter proves not only that Leary and Perret were Aaron Broussard's strawmen but they were also complicit in the alleged criminal activity.

the fixation you alluded to that these people in canada have towards ms. vandenweghe could also be described as stalking. their fraudulent actions in the canadian court seem to be retaliatory and part of the harassment that ms. vandenweghe has suffered as a result of the filing of her whistleblower claims. i would think under the circumstances that the FBI should be put on notice that her safety is presently in peril as a result of these very desperate men in nova scotia who are connected with mr. broussard.

January 27, 2012 4:15 am

Their fraudulent actions in Canada cross over into more torts than what AMV has described in her civil rights case against the Parish and that does not count criminal implications. I'll add that Telemachus has sent me email indicating that he/she is in fear for her life as a result of the actions perpetrated by Leary, who I think we've demonstrated is clearly acting as Aaron Broussard's straw man in Canada.

When Charles Leary, while denying Broussard was involved managing the Lodge, began threatening former employee Joyce Case Harlow after she spoke with me, I advised her, both via email and publicly on this blog to contact the FBI. After she called the NOLA office of the FBI I'll add the harassment stopped, except for an occasional defamatory comment such as the one they left about her on the Trout Point Blog recently.

I have yet to meet or even speak with the good guys but given the latest turn of events my advice to Whitmergate, Unslabbed and Telemachus is to go pay the FBI a visit.

Judge Pierre Muise should be proud he signed off on court orders that had the impact of putting people's lives at risk and impeded a major FBI investigation down here in NOLA. Keep that Muise surname circled folks.

What if WVUE had done a story about how Leary and Perret aggressively market Trout Point as a Gay destination ? And is allegedly owned and managed by gays ? No mention of Aaron Broussard. Do you think the Board of Directors of the Community School would refuse Mr. Loeb's donation? In fact, I think it is remiss on Mr. Loeb's part not to disclose this part of the Trout Point experience to the Board. Why the secrecy Mr. Loeb?

For me, this information would have no bearing ... but can we assume that the Directors of this School to be as tolerant as I?

Here in the US we have an adversarial system of law that guarantees certain due process rights. Sadly this is not the case in Nova Scotia. As proof allow me to offer this uncontested motion filed by Charles Leary on behalf of all the owners at Trout Point Lodge, silent or otherwise in the case against Fox 8 back in late April 2011. Canada, like the US supposedly has an adversarial system of law too but it is missing in Judge Muise's courtroom as I and 2 Slabbed commenters were robbed of our due process rights by a dishonest plaintiff that lied to the Nova Scotia Supreme Court. You see folks, as a reader pointed out to me this morning, there are two kinds of lies: those of commission and those of omission.

95 ... Judge Muise is evidently too dumb to see the blatant inconsistencies in his own court record, but like a pre schooler he colored all over Leary's motion whittling the time away while acting as if he were actually doing something productive for his community. Muise appears to be a good fit with your typical Mississippi Justice Court Judge.

There is a reason we have the SPEECH Act here in the US. In fact I see the need for additional protections.

Let me repeat myself here please: These guys are UNAMERICAN. They (American citizens still presumably) go to CANADA to sue fellow American Citizens because AMERICA does not allow the types of lawsuits they want to file. Then they think they can come back to AMERICAN courts to have their 'judgments' enforced? They should be deported and stripped of their citizenship...the gall...the nerve...not only should we BUY AMERICAN we should BE AMERICAN...if you don't like BEING AMERICAN and following AMERICAN laws then GO AWAY...GET LOST... STAY OFF AMERICAN SOIL. You are not welcome here.

Timing is everything ...

Leary's mendacious machinations in stultifying these Canadian Court's is at once ignominious and chimerical ... in other words, you Trout Point boys can wipe y'all's ass with your toilet paper Canadian Judgement ...

96 Sop, myself and others of the SlabbedNation share an ardent belief in our US Constitutional guarantees of free speech, association and privacy that demands our assiduous efforts to repel the forces of evil that Leary et al represent ...

you're timing's all wrong ... SPEECH means FUCK YOU Leary !!!

I almost pity Charles Leary as he is a front for the real evil bastard in Vaughn Perret and both are simple freeloaders hitched to Danny Abel along with Shane D'Antoni and his family

I do pity Judge Pierre Muise for even if he were well intentioned, (and I do not think he is) he is gonna come out on the end of this looking very badly IMHO.

I've been telling Leary for months that if he wanted a piece of me he had to come down here to get some. And by down here it won't be in the courtroom of a corrupt local judge like Ross LaDart no sir. All I need is a level playing field and the facts will take care of everything else from there.

I personally think Leary is scared of his own shadow and neither he nor Perret have the sack to come to Mississippi to attempt to enforce that judgment as they are cowards. When I'm done even Perret's niece, who filed an affidavit in that Fox 8 case, will understand her uncle is a grifting scumbag pussy.

January 29, 2012 2:03 pm Simply brilliant sharkpuppet, and insightful as well. Now I see the Trout Point sham more clearly. It was and is Broussard's corrupt conduct that is the proximate cause of any of the alleged wrongs that Trout Point, Leary and Perret claim to have suffered. Looks like these guys failed or refused to sue the proper party, the person whose actions are the root of all media coverage and various blog comments. So my question is whether Slabbed and any of the commenters will join to third party Broussard if in fact Leary comes down here in an attempt to enforce this fraudulent Judgement. I have already concluded that Slabbed and the commenters will sue Trout Point, Leary, Perret, Abel and any one else who is a part of this bullshit should they step foot down here. As a side note, if I were management of either the Times-Picayune or WVUE, I'd be seriously questioning the competence of their Canadian counsel given all we know about the fraud perpetrated by Leary et al upon the Canadian Courts.

TROUT POINT LODGE SELECTED AS FINALIST IN GLOBAL COMPETITION
Wilderness Resort Seeks Votes to Be Named Top Innovator in Geotourism

WASHINGTON (July 15, 2009)—Trout Point Lodge, based in Nova Scotia, was named today as one of 10 finalists from more than 600 entries in the second annual "Geotourism Challenge" sponsored by the National Geographic Society and Ashoka's Changemakers. The competition, focusing on "Power of Place — Sustaining the Future of Destinations," reaches out to identify individuals and companies worldwide that have introduced the most innovative practices in geotourism: tourism that sustains or enhances the geographical character of a place — its environment, culture, aesthetics, heritage and the well-being of its residents.

Entries were received from 81 countries and represented tour operators, guide companies, hoteliers, local businesses, conservation organizations, industry leaders and community organizers.

A distinguished panel of judges — Nobel Peace Prize winner Dr. Wangari Maathai, founder of the Green Belt Movement; Keith Bellows, editor of National Geographic Traveler magazine; Erika Harms, executive director of Sustainable Development, United Nations Foundation; Tony Wheeler, founder of Lonely Planet; Ben Keene, founder of Tribewanted; and Dr. Yang Yuming, vice president of Southwest Forestry University, China — reviewed the entries and selected Trout Point Lodge for revitalizing backwoods area of Acadian Forest through place-based immersion experiences and the Nova Scotia Cooking School.

Trout Point Lodge (<http://geotourism.changemakers.com/en-us/node/21375>) will now compete among the other finalists to be selected as one of three winners. The public is invited to vote online at www.changemakers.net/geotourismchallenge until Wednesday, Aug. 12. The winners, to be announced Wednesday, Sept. 9, will each receive a cash prize of $5,000.

The Geotourism Challenge is one of the key programs of National Geographic's Center for Sustainable Destinations. For more information on geotourism and destination stewardship, visit www.nationalgeographic.com/travel/sustainable.

VOTING OPENS TO SELECT BEST IDEAS AROUND GLOBE FOR SUSTAINABLE TOURISM

Online Community to Choose 3 World Winners from Field of 10

WASHINGTON (July 15, 2009)—Ten of the most innovative, sustainable travel programs around the world have been named finalists in the second annual Geotourism Challenge sponsored by the National Geographic Society and Ashoka's Changemakers. From now through Wednesday, Aug. 12, the public can vote online at www.changemakers.net/geotourismchallenge for the three finalists they consider most cutting-edge in providing visitors with authentic travel experiences, whether in a big city or a remote spot. The three winners will be announced Wednesday, Sept. 9, and each will receive a $5,000 prize.

All the finalists practice and advance geotourism: tourism that sustains or enhances the geographical character of a place — its environment, culture, aesthetics, heritage and the well-being of its residents. They were selected from 611 entries from 81 countries. Entries almost doubled this year over the first Geotourism Challenge in 2008.

A panel of expert judges — Nobel Peace Prize winner Dr. Wangari Maathai, founder of the Green Belt Movement; Keith Bellows, editor of National Geographic Traveler magazine; Erika Harms, executive director of Sustainable Development, United Nations Foundation; Tony Wheeler, founder of Lonely Planet; Ben Keene, founder of Tribewanted; and Dr. Yang Yuming, vice president of Southwest Forestry University, China — selected the finalists based on their innovation, social impact and sustainability/viability.

Said Maathai, "The entries really address community needs, teach, entertain and are accompanied by a lot of passion. I admire the finalists' enthusiasm and wish them much success."

The 10 finalists are:

Evergreen Brick Works of Toronto, Canada, is an adaptive re-use of the heritage structures at the Don Valley Brick Works, converting the city's abandoned ravines into a much respected public park and nature exploratory center.

The Geotourism Challenge: C
Places - Changing Lives

Vaughn Perret and Charles Leary

Unlikely as it seems, but it took a former lawyer and a scholar of Chinese history, who left their white collar careers to run an organic farm and restaurant in the deep South of the United States, to revive a "great camp" deep in Canada's backwoods. Vaughn Perret and Charles Leary, former lawyer and scholar respectively, have made their Trout Point Lodge an award-winning resort where tourists enjoy Acadian French cultural tourism and an ecologically-friendly immersion in the Tobetic Wilderness Area of southwestern Nova Scotia.

In 2009 the Changemaker's National Geographic Geotourism Challenge recognized Trout Point Lodge with a finalist award for creating a unique venture that captures the essence of geotourism: sustain and enhancing the character of a place, including its environment, culture, aesthetics, heritage, and the well-being of its residents.

"We certainly have been able to leverage the Changemakers competition finalist designation," said Leary. "The networking and exposure to other people's ideas and experiences excited me with all kinds of new thoughts about how to move Trout Point to a more sustainable position."

Trout Point Lodge is built from giant eastern spruce logs, and chiseled granite and sandstone that reflect its location in Atlantic Canada's largest protected wilderness area. Resting amidst a forest of pine, spruce and birch trees, the lodge is surrounded by organic vegetable, herb and flower gardens to which Perret and Leary turn for their guests' meals, and for the ingredients for their Creole, Acadian, Cajun and Mediterranean cooking classes.

The Creole/Cajun-Acadia connection is a natural one for Perret and Leary. Before coming to Canada, they were running one of the first certified organic farms in Louisiana, located near the Mississippi border – making hand-made French style naturally ripened cheeses, cultivating forest mushrooms as a revenue-generating product for poor, remote communities, and exploring sustainable ways to raise dairy sheep bred for hot climates. On a visit to Canada, they explored the roots of Louisiana cajun culture that traces back to the migration of French colonists in Acadia (the Canadian Maritime provinces) who were expelled by the British in the mid-1700s.

In keeping with Perret and Leary's ethic of giving back to the community, a local cabinetmaker made the lodge's wildwood furniture from saplings, burls, and branches taken from the land. The core of employees is local, and Perret and Leary have secured the confidence of the villagers of Kemptonville, the closest town located 20 kilometers from the lodge, as they collectively strive to revitalize nature tourism, culinary tourism, and Acadian French cultural tourism.

Perret says, "The biggest accomplishment for us during the last year, and something that almost magically seemed to happen, was that our business earned the trust of the local community – which means having people willing to throw their lives and fates in with ours. We almost don't have to hire anybody from outside now."

"It's an entirely handmade experience," Leary says. "We like to think of ourselves as an antidote to the commercial – almost entirely defined by place, whether focusing on the food or the building or the staff. We do encourage all of our employees to interact with the guests and tell their stories. It helps our guests to have some sort of link to the place, through our employees, their experiences, and their interactions."

Leary notes, "We have always tried to benefit the local communities in which we live, whether a poor community on the Louisiana or Mississippi border, or this backwoods community in Nova Scotia. We both diverted from our original professional career paths, and while that training has been invaluable, those paths were not what we wanted to pursue.”

Now Perret and Leary speak of the joy they experience by having discovered an alternative way of living a rich and meaningful life, as changemakers in this remote Atlantic Canadian region where they strive to protect the land and culture, and celebrate it with their guests. Perret says, “It was very interesting to participate in the Changemaker’s National Geographic Geotourism Challenge, because we never really thought about what we do – we just do it.”

Nova Scotia lodge among world's top foodie travel destinations

November 3, 2011 - 5:54pm By BRUCE ERSKINE Business Reporter

No votes yet

What does Trout Point Lodge in East Kemptville have in common with Copenhagen's Noma, the world's best restaurant in 2011?

Both have been selected as members of Departures magazine's ultra-exclusive Top 10 "foodie getaway" list of global culinary experiences worth planning a trip around.

Trout Point was cited by the upscale travel tome, a sister to Food & Wine and Travel & Leisure magazines, for its Nova Scotia Seafood Cooking School.

Lodge co-owner Vaughn Perret said he was humbled and honoured by the recognition.

"We're very happy to be included in that grouping," he said Thursday. "It's quite an honour but I try not to think about it. It doesn't change what we do."

What the lodge does offer a rustic but refined getaway on the banks of the Tusket River adjacent to the Tobetic Wilderness Area that includes gourmet cooking classes, sky safaris, hiking, kayaking or simply enjoying the enveloping peace and quiet.

Trout Point is the only Nova Scotia member of Relais & Chateaux, an exclusive collection of 480 of the finest hotels and restaurants in 56 countries. The log and stone lodge has been recognized by Relais & Chateaux, which was established in France in 1954, for its best practises.

And it will be cited at an upcoming Relais & Chateaux conference in Lisbon for its innovative sky safari program, which takes guests out under the night skies to star gaze with the aid of a Saint Mary's University astronomer — and a glass of wine.

"This is quite an honour as well," said Perret, who co-owns the lodge with Charles Leary.

The sky safaris are designed to "extend the natural day" and capitalize on the dramatically dark skies in the Kejimikujik area, he said. "It's very exciting."

Perret, like Leary, is a transplanted American. He said the lodge's international success demonstrates what the province can do.

"We live in a wonderful province with great people," he said, noting the staff that makes the lodge work are from the local community.

"I think we do things really well and a lot of people in the community could do equally as well."

Perret suggested that provincial tourism initiatives too often focus on chasing after outdated concepts.

"With the right encouragement, this province has extraordinary potential," he said. "You need to understand what the rest of the world wants and what the rest of the world is doing."

Trout Point has no televisions or in-room telephones and asks guests to sign a waiver restraining them from posting reviews or videos of their visits online.

The lodge won Parks Canada's Sustainable Tourism Award in 2007.

The National Geographic Society singled out Trout Point's culinary programs in its worldwide Geotourism Challenge: The Power of Place.

Let me repeat myself here please: These guys are UNAMERICAN. They (American citizens still presumably) go to CANADA to sue fellow American Citizens because AMERICA does not allow the types of lawsuits they want to file. Then they think they can come back to AMERICAN courts to have their 'judgments' enforced? They should be deported and stripped of their citizenship... the gall...the nerve...not only should we BUY AMERICAN we should BE AMERICAN...if you don't like BEING AMERICAN and following AMERICAN laws then GO AWAY...GET LOST... STAY OFF AMERICAN SOIL. You are not welcome here.

As Amended

SEC. 97-45-15. "Cyberstalking"; penalties.

(1) It is unlawful for a person to:

(a) Use in electronic mail or electronic communication any words or language threatening to inflict bodily harm to any person or to that person's child, sibling, spouse or dependent, or physical injury to the property of any person, or for the purpose of extorting money or other things of value from any person.

(b) Electronically mail or electronically communicate to another repeatedly, whether or not conversation ensues, for the purpose of threatening, terrifying or harassing any person.

(c) Electronically mail or electronically communicate to another and to knowingly make any false statement concerning death, injury, illness, disfigurement, indecent conduct, or criminal conduct of the person electronically mailed or of any member of the person's family or household with the intent to threaten, terrify or harass.

(d) Knowingly permit an electronic communication device under the person's control to be used for any purpose prohibited by this section.

(2) Whoever commits the offense of cyberstalking shall be punished, upon conviction:

(a) Except as provided herein, the person is guilty of a felony punishable by imprisonment for not more than two (2) years or a fine of not more than Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000.00), or both.

(b) If any of the following apply, the person is guilty of a felony punishable by imprisonment for not more than five (5) years or a fine of not more than Ten Thousand Dollars ($10,000.00), or both:

(i) The offense is in violation of a restraining order and the person has received actual notice of that restraining order or posting the message is in violation of an injunction or preliminary injunction.

(ii) The offense is in violation of a condition of probation, a condition of parole, a condition of pretrial release or a condition of release on bond pending appeal.

(iii) The offense results in a credible threat being communicated to the victim, a member of the victim's family, or another individual living in the same household as the victim.

(iv) The person has been previously convicted of violating this section or a substantially similar law of another state, a political subdivision of another state, or of the United States.

(3) This section does not apply to any peaceable, nonviolent, or nonthreatening activity intended to express political views or to provide lawful information to others. This section shall not be construed to impair any constitutionally protected activity, including speech, protest or assembly.

MISSISSIPPI CODE OF 1972

As Amended

SEC. 97-45-25. Additional penalties for violations under this chapter.

In a proceeding for violations under Title 97, Chapter 45, * * * Section 97-5-33 or Section 97-19-85, the court, in addition to the criminal penalties imposed under this chapter, shall assess against the defendant convicted of such violation double those reasonable costs that are expended by the Office of Attorney General, the district attorney's office, the sheriff's office or police department involved in the investigation of such case, including, but not limited to, the cost of investigators, software and equipment utilized in the investigation, together with costs associated with process service, court reporters and expert witnesses. The Attorney General or district attorney may institute and maintain proceedings in his name for enforcement of payment in the circuit court of the county of residence of the defendant and, if the defendant is a nonresident, such proceedings shall be in the Circuit Court of the First Judicial District of Hinds County, Mississippi. The Attorney General or district attorney shall distribute the property or interest assessed under this section as follows:

(a) Fifty percent (50%) shall be distributed to the unit of state or local government whose officers or employees conducted the investigation into computer fraud, identity theft or child exploitation which resulted in the arrest or arrests and prosecution. Amounts distributed to units of local government shall be used for training or enforcement purposes relating to detection, investigation or prosecution of computer and financial crimes, including computer fraud or child exploitation.

(b) Where the prosecution was maintained by the district attorney, fifty percent (50%) shall be distributed to the county in which the prosecution was instituted by the district attorney and appropriated to the district attorney for use in training or enforcement purposes relating to detection, investigation or prosecution of computer and financial crimes, including computer fraud or child exploitation. Where a prosecution was maintained by the Attorney General, fifty percent (50%) of the proceeds shall be paid or distributed into the Attorney General's Cyber Crime Central or the Attorney General's special fund to be used for consumer fraud education and investigative and enforcement operations of the Office of Consumer Protection. Where the Attorney General and the district attorney have participated jointly in any part of the proceedings, twenty-five percent (25%) of the property forfeited shall be paid to the county in which the prosecution occurred, and twenty-five percent (25%) shall be paid to the Attorney General's Cyber Crime Central or the Attorney General's special fund to be used for the purposes as stated in this paragraph.

As a CPA who spent a career auditing including a number of years auditing local governments here in Mississippi I'll add Spears is grasping at straws trying to create a straw man that will extract his ass outta the massive trouble its in. Spears was a close confidant to Dollar Bill Jefferson as well as political ally to Lee and Lee's blow buddy, Congressman elect Cedric Richmond. Spears wife Sonja is currently under federal investigation for payroll fraud as she abandoned the bench in NOLA for Beantown yet curiously decided to continue her paycheck from the local court system despite being long gone. From all appearances, Spears has some money problems to go along with his family's legal troubles and we hear the quality of his representation of State Farm is deteriorating as the pressure is no doubt taking a toll on the man. Speaking of pressure, financial and otherwise it appears Lee has some of his own as Channel 4 chipped in on this topic last night with a video report I've embedded below the quote from the related print story:

Folks, most partners at your average local CPA firm could work an entire year on one account and still not bill what Vandale Thomas billed to the NOLA traffic court at a mere $80/hour in 2010. My $175/hour professional opinion is Vandale has lots of 'splaining to do.

All these revelations coming from the various NOLA courthouses surprise me not one bit as low-level employees have evidently been cut while the judges and their cronies continue to live large and in charge. I've been hearing rumblings of massively dissatisfied employees for over a year now. I think the leakers are getting a good bit of satisfaction these days.

Behavioral economist Dan Ariely has done a good bit of work on the behavioral economic concept of revenge. The judges at the CDCs, Muni and Traffic courts would do well to bone up on the subject IMHO.

Google Basics

When you sit down at your computer and do a Google search, you're almost instantly presented with a list of results from all over the web. How does Google find web pages matching your query, and determine the order of search results?

In the simplest terms, you could think of searching the web as looking in a very large book with an impressive index telling you exactly where everything is located. When you perform a Google search, our programs check our index to determine the most relevant search results to be returned ("served") to you.

The three key processes in delivering search results to you are:

Crawling: Does Google know about your site? Can we find it?

[Learn

Indexing: Can Google index your site?

[Learn

Serving: Does the site have good and useful content that is relevant to the user's search?

[Learn

Crawling

back to top

Crawling is the process by which Googlebot discovers new and updated pages to be added to the Google index.

We use a huge set of computers to fetch (or "crawl") billions of pages on the web. The program that does the fetching is called Googlebot (also known as a robot, bot, or spider). Googlebot uses an algorithmic process: computer programs determine which sites to crawl, how often, and how many pages to fetch from each site.

Google's crawl process begins with a list of web page URLs, generated from previous crawl processes, and augmented with Sitemap data provided by webmasters. As Googlebot visits each of these websites it detects links on each page and adds them to its list of pages to crawl. New sites, changes to existing sites, and dead links are noted and used to update the Google index.

Google doesn't accept payment to crawl a site more frequently, and we keep the search side of our business separate from our revenue-generating AdWords service.

Indexing

↓ 1 TagS

back to top

Googlebot processes each of the pages it crawls in order to compile a massive index of all the words it sees and their location on each page. In addition, we process information included in key content tags and attributes, such as Title tags and ALT attributes. Googlebot can process many, but not all, content types. For example, we cannot process the content of some rich media files or dynamic pages.

Serving results

When a user enters a query, our machines search the index for matching pages and return the results we believe are the most relevant to the user. Relevancy is determined by over 200 factors, one of which is the PageRank for a given page. PageRank is the measure of the importance of a page based on the incoming links from other pages. In simple terms, each link to a page on your site from another site adds to your site's PageRank. Not all links are equal: Google works hard to improve the user experience by identifying spam links and other practices that negatively impact search results. The best types of links are those that are given based on the quality of your content.

In order for your site to rank well in search results pages, it's important to make sure that Google can crawl and index your site correctly. Our Webmaster Guidelines outline some best practices that can help you avoid common pitfalls and improve your site's ranking.

Google's Did you mean and Google Autocomplete features are designed to help users save time by displaying related terms, common misspellings, and popular queries. Like our google.com search results, the keywords generated by these features are automatically generated by our web crawlers and search algorithms. We display these predictions only when we think they might save the user time. If a site ranks well for a keyword, it's because we've algorithmically determined that its content is more relevant to the user's query.

Yesterday, I gave a very thorough definition of what blog tags are. Today, I'm going to tell you how to create blog tags for SEO as well as for human interaction purposes.

The practice of blog SEO can sometimes create a dilemma. Everyone wants their blog to be optimized for search engines but no one wants to make readability sacrifices. Blog posts written to target keywords can sometimes be less legible than blog posts written in ignorance of search engines. With tags however, the more efficient they are for people, the more efficient they are for search engine optimization. In other words, you get the best of both worlds! If you use tags properly of course.

World #1: Blog post tagging for human interaction

The biggest mistake bloggers make when creating tags is to use each tag only once. After a post is written, a blogger will tag the post with maybe 3 or 4 relevant tags. The tags are usually created without much thought. This creates a problem in the future because it can be very difficult to recall those tags for future relevant posts. Why? Because the brain is spontaneous and creative. There can sometimes be many names for any given tag. A tag like "making soup" could also be created as "how to make soup," "make soup," and "soup recipes." The blog software that you use (i.e. WordPress) has no way of knowing that "making soup" and "soup making" are the same thing so they are treated as separate tags.

The developers of WordPress had all of this in mind when they created their tag system. WordPress has a tag suggestion tool built-in to the post editor. The nifty feature exists on the right hand side of the post editor page in the "Post Tags" box.

Post Tags

Add new tag

Add

Separate tags with commas.

Choose from the most used tags in Post Tags

By clicking "Choose from the most used tags in Post Tags," you can view all of your previously created tags. Choosing from the list of previously created tags is always a good idea. After the first 20 or so blog posts, most of the new posts should be tagged with previously created tags. The idea is to never have two tags alike and to group as many similar posts together as possible.

Tags should also overlap each other. A post about making clam chowder soup should be in the previously created "making soup" tag but should also be in the previously created "clams" tag. The "making soup" tag and the "clams" tag are then overlapping.

People generally click on tags because they are relevant to the blog post they just read. By practicing the above, each of your tags will ideally contain multiple relevant posts. There is nothing worse than for a reader to click on a tag and be taken to a list of only one or two relevant posts. God forbid a reader click on a tag containing only the post that was just read! That is why it is important to re-use tags for human interaction purposes.

World#2: Blog post tagging for SEO

Should you properly tag posts for human interaction (using the above methods), your tags should naturally give your blog an SEO boost. Search engines like Google reward sites that have plentiful internal links, specifically links that connect relevant content. However, there are a few tagging practices that will optimize your site for search engines.

- Plan your tags. Every time you create a new tag, you should consider carefully what keywords it contains. Are the keywords contained in the tag valuable/desirable? Tags will ideally be used over and over. Although WordPress has a tool for renaming tags, it is always best to get it right the first time.
- Think specific. Tags are for grouping posts together based on specific criteria. Categories are for grouping posts together based on general criteria. By placing a post in a category, you've already given search engines a general idea of what your post is about; use tags to label your post more specifically. This will greatly increase your chances of receiving short-tail and long-tail keyword traffic from search engines.
- List tags at the end of each post and place a tag cloud in your sidebar. Tags are no use if they aren't visible! Tags will multiply the number of internal links on your blog only if search engines can crawl them. It is also a good idea to link to specific tags in your posts. In-post tag links should contain the same keywords in the tag linked to.

Tags are a powerful weapon for blog search engine optimization as well as for site usability. A well-practiced tagger will have around 3 tags per post and each tag containing 3 or more other posts. Empty tags are inevitable. Sometimes posts are so unique, they really can't be grouped together with anything.

Happy tagging!

The Importance of Tags

3.1.11 by ashley in Topic 20 Comments

“Identifiers” in our platforms are very important for Publishers (Bloggers, Tweeters, Mobilers). Whether keywords or tags, these identifiers help advertisers target those Publishers that are the best fit for any given campaign. So similar to a post we published about keywords on the Sponsored Tweets blog several months ago, we thought it’d be worth talking about the importance of tags in the SocialSpark system.

First of all, tags are important to you as a Publisher because they associate your blog and its content with specific terms that let advertisers know what you typically talk about. Often, advertisers will segment based on these tags, so obviously it’s very important to have something in the tags field.

To access your tags feature, sign-in to your account. Once you’ve signed in click on the “My Account” tab. You’ll then want to select the “Your Properties” link on the righthand side to get an overview of your blog(s) information:

Then this:

The tags field is the third one on the page, just below the area where you put your blog description. Your tags will be directly associated with your blog content; that will be different than those featured here. So, consider some of the topics you regularly blog about, and enter in those tags to your profile.

Once in the “Your Properties” space you should see something similar to this:

Set the amount of money you wish to earn per post here. A suggested price is shown below based on your Google Analytics stats. If you have not finished authorizing us to access your Google Analytics data, the minimum will be shown. Remember that each point is worth one penny.

TIP: Think carefully about the subjects you talk about. And make sure these tags are ones that are going to be relevant to your audience. Remember, the sponsored posts on your blog are meant to add value to your audience. After all, you want them to be interested in your posts, and this will in-turn provide the most value to the Advertiser hiring you.

Take a peek at your SocialSpark account as soon as you can, and make sure that you not only have tags in place, but that the tags are relevant to both you and your audience. It could mean causing you to miss Opportunities if you don't.

Once you have input tags into your profile you're increasing your chances of receiving Opportunities...and that's a good thing!

Hope this has been helpful! Please let us know if you have any questions.
